

An Artist's Prayer

by Katrina C. Hopkins

Oh Great Mother,

I walk this path in your name, that I be of greater service to you and all the universe through my life's work.

I offer myself to you as your instrument.

I open my self to your creativity in my life.

I surrender to you, my old ideas.

I welcome your new & expansive ideas.

I trust that you will lead me.

I know you created me and that creativity is your nature and my own.

I ask you to unfold my life according to your plan for me and not according to my low self worth and shame.

Help me to believe that it is not too late and that I am not too small or too flawed to be healed by you and made whole.

Help me to love, nurture, encourage and understand myself and others who walk this path.

Help me to create as an act of worship to you and as an honor to those who walked this path before me.
