

1. Creativity is an ever present, ever flowing current of energy. Life is energy: pure creative energy.
2. This creative energy is immanent within all things; all the elements, the creatures, and myself.
3. In allowing the creative current to flow throughout, I widen the channel for further creativity to flow.
4. As I am part of creation, I also have co-creative powers.
5. Using my co-creativity, I honor my birthright and power as a child of the Goddess.
6. The refusal to be creative can be due to a combination fears and restrictions; now is the time to release the chains that bind me, and reclaim my natural co-creative powers.
7. In opening myself up to my personal creativity, I open up new opportunities for self-value and understanding my important place and connection to All Beings.
8. As I open myself to my creativity, my eyes also open to the abundance and blessings that surround me. Allowing the abundance into my life, I am fulfilled and flexible to the flow of Life itself.
9. Creativity is my birthright, and as such, is safe and encouraged that I partake of its blessing.
10. As I practice my co-creative power, my power becomes refined and brings me ever deeper into my Goddess self.
